US-only Patent Search:

Price: $220.00 (US) ($200 for electronic results only)

The US Patent Search includes primarily prior art found in both expired and active US patents, and includes published US patent applications currently available in the US Patent Office database. In many instances, a brief search of public non-patent literature may also be conducted. The search techniques are based mainly on keywords, classes/subclasses, and forward/backward referencing.

The results will typically include the five to eight most relevant references found, but often will be one to twelve in number. Generally the results will be provided as complete pdf files, but hard copies will be mailed on request.

US & International Patent Search:

The results will typically include five to ten of the most relevant references found, but can be anywhere from one to fifteen in number. Generally the results will be emailed as complete pdf files, but hard copies will be mailed on request, but without the $20 discount. For some foreign patents, only the abstract will be in English, but drawing pages will also be included.

Pre-Issue or Post-Grant Challenge Search (Validity):

Price: via Quotation- depends on complexity of specific application

Under the provisions of the America Invents Act which recently went into effect, there now is a wider time window and it is potentially more effective for a third party to submit prior art evidence to the Patent Office that might influence the examination of patent applications filed after March 16, 2013. This can even be done anonymously through a patent agent or attorney. Also, patents issued after March 16, 2013 can be challenged within 9 months of the issue date. Thus the third party may be able to minimize the threat of their business or business plan infringing on another's patent.

The searching service offered would review the claims of the application or patent in question and look for prior art (patents, patent applications, and publications) that may be helpful in mounting a challenge or submission. The results would then be reviewed by the client and subsequently discussed with their licensed patent practitioner to decide on a course of action.

Update Search: In cases where there is a prior search with some useful findings as a good starting point, a lower price may be acceptable - call or email for a quote.

First Round "Knock-Out Search: In the event that some very similar prior art is located very quickly, such will be run past the inventor to see if they wish to have the search continued. If not, the charge will be just $100, and the difference will be refunded.
